

Dear Nordic colleagues,

Here comes an update about the conference in Västerås in September!

I want to start by thanking for all the interesting and highquality abstracts that you have sent in. The submissions of abstracts is now closed and all abstracts were reviewed by a scientific committee and rated on scientific quality, clinical relevance and novelty. We are very impressed by the quality of abstracts and we have tried our best to give you an interesting, varied and high quality program. Letters of acceptance or rejection has been sent to all corresponding authors and the full program will be presented on the conference website <https://nedsconference.com> shortly.

The registration for the conference is open and the early bird prize will be extended until May 31st. During the registration process you also register if you wish to attend the conference dinner. It is included in the prize. If you book accommodation at the conference hotel a visit to the pool club is also included in the prize. Here is the link to the registration:

I also want to take the opportunity to remind you of the Pre-Conference workshop on September 8th at the Stockholm Centre for Eating Disorders. The workshop is a TBT-S level 1 training, held by Professor Christina Wierenga from the University of California and Kristin Stedal from the Oslo University Hospital. You can read more about it here:

The other thing I want to promote is our meeting for young researchers on the Friday of the conference. We hope this will be a great opportunity for new researchers to network. You can read more about it here: <https://nedsconference.com/neds-conference-2026/nordic-meeting-for-young-researchers/>

I wish you all a nice and relaxing summer and hope to see you in Västerås in September 2024.

Sincerely,

Sanna Aila Gustafsson

Sanna Aila Gustafsson, chairman of the Nordic Eating Disorder Society
